REAL ESTATE DEAL.

Mr. Ed. Allen on Saturday sold to Mr. Banks Hudson his farm on the Lancaster pike, about three miles from Danville, containing about 120 acres, taking in exchange in the deal Mr. Hudson's residence on Maple avenue, this city. —Danville Advocate.

EDITOR AS CHAIRMAN.

Editor R. L. Elkin, of the Lancaster Record, has been appointed chairman of the Garrard county Democratic campaign committee. He is a hard worker and will do much toward rolling up a big majority for Helm and Wilson in November. —Danville Messenger.

ACCEPTS POSITION IN DANVILLE.

Miss Minnie Guley who has been one of Mr. G. M. Lyons' most accommodating and efficient clerks, has accepted a position with Welsh and Wiseman and will take up her new position in Danville next Monday.

INTERESTING

ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment held at the school auditorium last week for the benefit of the Woman's Club library was well attended and enjoyed by everyone. Living Pictures of noted masters, readings and musical program composed the program and forty dollars was realized for this good work.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cox of the Hubble Section, had quite a number with them the 20th of August. It being her birthday, she was 78, he 88. They have 11 children, 35 grand children and 30 great grand children, 82 were present. After the bountiful dinner was served, they had singing and prayer by sister Hoffman, all seemed to enjoy the day. It will long be remembered by Father, Mother, Children, and all who had the pleasure of being there. May the Lord bless Mr. and Mrs. Cox and may they spend many more such days.

CITY PROPERTY

IN DEMAND

The Rex Theatre property and the lot adjoining upon which the Airdome theatre is located was sold at public auction Saturday afternoon by L. E. Herron to Walter Hammack. The price bid was $8,000.00. Other bidders were W. J. Speath and Judge L. L. Walker. Mr. Hammack bought the building for his own use, and will place a garage on the main floor in the near future.

The property of Mrs. Ada Kinnaird, sold at public auction Monday was bought by Taylor Haney for $1,700.00. The George Pollard property on Danville street was sold by the Master Commissioner at public auction and was bought by J. E. Robinson for $1300.00.

BUMPER CROWD

HERE MONDAY.

Last Monday being the regular county court day and in addition the opening of the August term of Circuit court, brought one of the largest crowds seen here for several months. The city was crowded with stock of every character, mostly horses and mules, the latter selling rapidly to the numerous buyers that were here from different parts of the state. Few cattle were on the market but all sold at satisfactory prices. The following sales were gathered: J. E. Robinson bought 17 head of four year old mules of T. J. Price at an average of $140 a head. V. A. Lear bought 23 head of fat cattle of J. E. Robinson at 77 cents. Smith and McClintock, of Paris bought about seven head of mules, including one pair of Nelson Marsee, for $350. M. J. Farris and son, of Danville bought several cotton mules from $100 to $125. N. H. Peel, of Nicholasville, bought four army horses that averaged $107.50 each. Warfield and Robinson bought a nice mule of S. L. Gibbs, for $175. J. P. Bourne sold five head of mules averaging $127.50 a head. R. L. Elkin bought a pair of 3 year old mules of W. S. Bettus, for $250. W. B. Burton bought eight nice mules that cost him about $160 a head.

PROTRACTED MEETING.

A series of meetings will begin at the Christian church in this city on Sunday, September 24th, the services being conducted by Rev. C. S. Prokes, one of the most noted evangelists of this denomination.

AUTO CRASHES WINDOW.

On Saturday the Ford automobile, driven by Mrs. J. M. Acton became unmanageable and crashed into one of the plate glass windows of Stormes Drug store, completely demolishing the window. The car stalled after hitting the window and no one was hurt.

LOCATES AT NICHOLASVILLE

Lancaster friends will regret to hear that Mr. Joe Nevins and family will leave shortly for Nicholasville where Mr. Nevins has bought an interest in the feed store and mill of J. B. Saunders. He is well adapted to this business, having been connected with the Lancaster Mill for a number of years as miller.

SPECIAL TRAIN.

Numerous special trains will leave Louisville, beginning at 7 o'clock and running every fifteen minutes, Monday morning, September 4th over the Illinois Central to Hodgenville, to witness President Wilson's acceptance of Lincoln Farm. The round trip fare from Louisville to Hodgenville will be $2.00. Special trains will return about 5 P. M. The highway for automobiles is said to be in excellent condition.

TWO ACCIDENTS

Mr. Joe Crisillis and "Doc" Walker happened to painful accidents last week that resulted in each having received a broken leg. Mr. Crisillis was thrown from a wagon load of tobacco and his ankle was broken. The break was a bad one and he suffered much pain. Mr. Walker had started to town with a load of watermelons and going down a steep hill the horse became frightened from the wagon running upon it and began to kick, striking Mr. Walker just below the knee and breaking the bone. Both are doing well.

STATE FAIR TO BE LARGE.

Mat S. Cohen, Commissioner of Agriculture, says that in his honest opinion the Kentucky State Fair will be far better this year than ever. The commissioner has been busy all summer getting things into shape but when the time comes he will be ready for the greatest State Fair in history. These facts are substantiated by the number of early entries coming in in the various live stock departments. Many people thought because Cohen had always been a horseman that the State Fair during his term of office would be nothing more than a horse show. This impression is incorrect because the present indications point toward the greatest live stock show ever held. As a matter of fact the commissioner took away from the horse department and added to other departments.

HIGHER COST

For Newspaper Service Will Result From Increased Paper Cost.

The newspapers all over the country report to the Federal Trade Commission that unless there is relief from the high cost of news print paper, there will have to be universally increased prices put upon the newspaper service. In many cities of the country prices to subscribers have already been advanced, and in practically all of the cities of the country increase in subscription prices will soon become a vital and unescapable necessity, despite the hesitancy and the unwillingness on the part of newspaper publishers to take such a stand.

Despite increase in subscription prices and advertising rates it will be necessary for newspapers to cut down the size of their papers unless there is relief from excessive cost of raw materials. Already New York and Philadelphia publishers have materially reduced the size of their issues.

SCHOOL OPENS

SEPTEMBER 4TH.

The Lancaster Graded and High School will open Monday, September 4th, at 9 a. m. Tuition for non-resident pupils follows:
Grades 1, 2 and 3 $ 9.00 per term
Grades 4, 5 and 6 $12.00 per term
Grades 7, 8 and 9 $18.00 per term
Grades 10, 11 and 12 $25.00 per term
The same rates apply to County High School pupils as to non-resident pupils. Tuition due in advance.

Mrs. May Hughes Noland will be in charge of the Music department and all intending to take music should see her on Monday.

S. D. Cochran, Sec'y of Board.

IN POLICE COURT.

Fred Emerson better known as Posey, was convicted on a charge of selling whiskey in Judge Frisbie's court Tuesday and fined ten dollars and sentenced one hundred days in jail. Chief of Police Buck found as evidence forty seven pints of whiskey on the defendant's property. Judge Frisbie has set no time as yet for the official breaking of the bottles.

MORROW OPENS

FOR REPUBLICANS.

Hon. Elwin Morrow of Somerset spoke here Monday in the interest of the Republican party. The speaking was well attended, the Courtroom being filled with Republicans and some Democrats. Mr. Morrow spoke largely on the protective tariff, saying that the war had thrown a protective wall about American products and predicting an upheaval at the end of the war if the American goods were not protected. He lambasted the statesmanship of Justice Hughes and attacked the foreign policy of the President as wobbly and vacillating. Mr. Morrow is a powerful speaker and was enjoyed by those of both parties who heard him.

SCHOOL OPENING

Will Take Place Monday. Teachers Appointed.

The Lancaster Graded School will open the year next Monday and the public is cordially invited to attend the opening exercises. The Trustees have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. P. H. Hopkins, a graduate of Georgetown for principal of the school and in addition the following teachers have been appointed.

THE HOME STREET FAIR A GREAT SUCCESS.

The Home Street Fair given in the interest of Civic work, and for the improvement of the town was a decided success. By the hearty response of the enterprising citizens a delightful evening was enjoyed, and the sum of $90. realized for the fountain.

The grounds were gay and festive with their twinkling lights and beautiful booths. The first attraction that claimed your attention was the Mystery Well, a natural looking log cabin covered a deep well with its old oaken bucket. If you placed a 10 or 25 cents in this bucket it would descend into mysterious depths bringing up a package of equal value. Mrs. Curry, Miss Helen Gill and her visitor, Miss Strong, had charge of this unique cabin. Mr. Victor Lear proved a fine "apeeler" and persuaded many to try their luck. Miss Delia Tindler from her sheltered booth sent out showers of "confetti" filling the air with their fairy dakes.

Mrs. Marksberry, Misses Jane and Mary Doty and Martha Gill sold genuine home-made candy from a patriotic stand draped in the stars and stripes. Miss Joan Mount and Mrs. Lige Ford were glowing with yellow decorations and dispensed lemonade and sandwiches. Mesdames Embury and Haselden served ice cream and sherbet and home made cake.

Miss Alberta Anderson with her usual energy had arranged a collection of wonders you might not have found in the seven wonders of the world but seven times seven. There were "monuments of Greece", "New York on a small scale", "the peace makers", "Grant in China" and others equally interesting.

Was it a real gypsy who told fortunes in front of her tent, or was it Sue Shelby? Some looked mighty serious, and some as happy as they left her. There was magic in her art that night. The flower girls were Misses Robinson, Dickerson, Kavanaugh and Ford, and were beautiful and fair as the flowers they carried. Few could resist their appeals and we are told that sunflowers and zinnias never before brought such prices.

Mr. Robert Noland demonstrated Mrs. Joe Francis' Pathephone and added a note of sweetness to the merry sounds.

Were there ever such merry, tireless clowns as Russell Sanford and Samuel Elliott?

The Camp Fire Girls sent Nellie Noland and Ruth Carrier who added a picturesque touch.

Will Rice Amon received the prize for the prettiest home-made lantern. The ladies promised an evening of frolic and fun and so it proved "with much to make you laugh and nothing to make you sad."

The Pony Parade on Friday afternoon was indeed a parade with Mutt and Jeff represented by Robert Ross and Irvine Stapp to head it. The ponies and carts were all beautiful, but the judges finally gave the blue to S. D. Cochran Jr., the red to Carrie Balla Romans and the 3rd prize to Sallie Crook Gregory. It was an attractive little show.

To Our Subscribers.

On account of the high cost of newspaper and every other article used in a printing office, we are compelled to ask our subscribers who are in arrears to come or send in their subscription.

We appreciate our subscribers and dislike very much to discontinue a single paper. Should any of you fail to pay and cause us to discontinue your paper, you still owe the debt which is as just as any you ever made.

Please do not wait, but come or send amount due us. Sincerely,

KENTUCKY NEWS CUT TO THE QUICK FOR BUSY READERS

Mount Persifull, farmer, of Waco, lost a foot while operating a mower.

Rev. Joseph Hensley, who died at Georgetown, has baptised 1,500 people and has married 500 couples. He is survived by twelve children.

Lexington can not vote next year to abandon the Commission Form of Government, according to an opinion of Attorney General Logan.

Mrs. James, the wife of Senator Ollie M. James, of Marion, has joined Mrs. Post Wheeler in Philadelphia, from whence they will go to Japan on a tour.

Governor Stanley addressed the delegation of 100 farmers of Florida upon their arrival at Versailles. They had been touring Kentucky for educational purposes.

Three convicts have escaped from the convict camp in Bell County where they have been working the roads under the new law which is being tried out first in that county.

Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, of Lexington, and Miss Texas Camden, of Woodford County, have sent to Governor Stanley their resignations as members of the State Tuberculosis Commission.

With closing words of a prayer on his lips, J. P. Coleman, Sunday school teacher, fell dead as he dismissed his class in Hopewell church, in Mercer county. Mr. Coleman was 74 years old.

Application has been made by Col. Colston to army authorities to allow the First Regiment to hike from Ft. Thomas to Louisville to attend the State Fair one day during the week of September 11-15.

Plans go forward for the opening of the Democratic campaign in Winchester September 5th. A big barbeque will be one of the features and 20,000 people are expected to be present.

"I just took a little leave of absence to spend the weekend with my family." This was the assertion of James Holland, state convict, who escaped from a road gang near Pikeville, when he returned to camp of his own accord.

Relatives in Ashland received word from Peck Peers, whose home is in Ashland, that he is with the Austrian army serving as an auto driver. Peers went around the world as a member of the United States navy.

A shipment of high-bred horses and jacks purchased in Central Kentucky by Carlos Luetgert, representative of the Casas Grande Sugar Plantation Company, was made from Lexington to Peru.

County Attorney A. S. Bullitt and Police Captain T. J. Grimes, of Louisville, on route home from Ashland in a canoe, upset and narrowly escaped drowning. They lost $150 in money, two watches and several suits of clothing.

The 1916 meet of the National Fox Hunters' Association will be held at Columbia November 20. It was announced by officials attending the annual executive meeting at Lexington. Almost 100 fox hunters from all parts of the country attended.

Resolutions opposing any plan to grant without arbitration the demand of railroad trainmen for an eight-hour day as a basis for compensation adopted at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Louisville board of trade, have been forwarded to President Wilson.

The Mayville Cotton Mills has received by express a package of anti-dye that was part of the cargo of the submarine Deutschland. The proprietors say the price is almost nominal, and another shipment is expected, this making enough to tide the mills over the coming winter.

President Wilson last Friday accepted for the United States the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln at Hodgenville, Ky., authorized by a recent act of Congress. Formal ceremonies transferring the property to the government will be held at Hodgenville September 4, with the President as the chief speaker.

Hydrochloric acid used in cleaning surface stone on the Tyler Hotel at Louisville, was carelessly spilled on a rope that held a scaffold at the fifth story on which Andrew Erny and Fred Reichel were working. The scaffold fell, Reichel was almost instantly killed and Erny was painfully injured.

Free aggregating $187,000 for the administration and settlement of the estate of L. P. Ewald, the Iron Mountain, were allowed in Louisville by Judge Kirby. This sum was a reduction of $54,000 from fees originally allowed, totalling $241,000, by Eustace L. Williams, Master Commissioner of the Circuit Court.

The Lexington Board of Education has adopted the following rule: "No teacher shall be elected who has not had a physical examination by the School Medical Inspector or physician who is a member of the Fayette Medical Society, and who does not thereby hold a certificate of good health and physical vigor from such examining physician."

Formal protest to Congress against the re-establishment of the British black list on tobacco to Germany and her allies, on the grounds that this would mean a loss of millions of dollars in the sale of the crop now ripening to the dark tobacco growers of Kentucky, Tennessee and other states, has been made by prominent farmers and business men throughout the state.

The teacher of the best moonlight school in Kentucky this fall and winter will be given a trip to Washington and taken over the city there by Congressman J. W. Field and others, and will have the pleasure of meeting President Wilson. This should be incentive to strive for the best moonlight schools, as the trip will certainly be worth while.

A letter received in Lexington by C. N. Manning, president of the Lexington Onchida Club, containing a draft for $10,000, the gift of the late Col. Robert A. Torrey, millionaire cattle ranchman, of Fruitville, Mo., as a donation to the fund now being raised for the Institute in Clay County, which several months ago suffered the loss of its main dormitory by fire.

An urgent plea for the prevention of tuberculosis was voiced by Gov. Stanley in an address to delegates for the seventh tuberculosis sanitarium district in Covington. "The Tuberculosis Commission," said the governor, "is neither Democratic nor Republican. I want it to do its best to stamp out this disease which is claiming the lives of one-seventh of the people of the country."

Senator John K. Shields, of Tennessee; Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina; Representative Cordell Hull, of Carthage, Tenn., and Representative Charles P. Coady, of Maryland, as well as the governors of eight states in the Appalachian mountain range are expected in Lexington on the opening day of the Southern Appalachian Good Roads association, whose sessions will be held September 5 to 8.

Harry C. Taylor, Mayor of Versailles, is touring in Northern Michigan. When he crossed the Ohio River at Covington it was the first time in his life that Versailles' Mayor has ever been outside the limits of the state of Kentucky. He has never ridden in a sleeping car and until two years ago he held the unique record of never having spent a night outside of his own house.

With a bumper crop of tobacco nearly ready for the knife, a splendid crop of corn in prospect and farm work in general promising to be most active during the fall, the farmers in many sections are confronted with what appears to be a serious shortage in the labor supply. For several years past the labor problem has been increasing in gravity, but this year a combination of circumstances makes it take on fresh import.

Proof that Kentucky National Guard will carry but a very short time longer at Ft. Thomas was furnished, it is said, Sunday, when F. L. Polk, director, in charge of the railroad arrangements for moving the brigade to the border, received a letter from George Hodges, Secretary of a War Department bureau in charge of troop transportation, asking what arrangements had been made for moving the guard "on the shortest possible notice."

Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding, who had been in failing health for the last two weeks, died in Peoria, Ill. He had been ill for a number of years, having suffered a paralytic stroke in 1906. Archbishop Spalding was a native of Lebanon, Ky., and after being educated at Louisville he returned to Kentucky and was in charge of the cathedral in Louisville from 1895 to 1899.

S. V. Robinson, a prominent farmer of Cobb, near Princeton, is owner of a dog that has the unique distinction of making a regular hand at catching worms on Mr. Robinson's tobacco. The dog goes to the tobacco field regularly with the laborers and takes a row of tobacco and searches diligently for the worms. When one is found he catches it between the nose and foot and rolling it from the tobacco leaf, kills it.

Preparations for President Wilson's trip from Louisville to Hodgenville September 4 when he publicly will accept the Lincoln Memorial Farm, include several special trains for the use of the public and the President's bodyguard. The first of these will carry forty mounted police, as well as several patrolmen, who will act as a special bodyguard to the President. Special trains will leave Louisville every 15 minutes between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Memoranda received at brigade headquarters of the Kentucky National Guard at Ft. Thomas provide for the discharge of enlisted men who declare their intention of returning to school. According to declarations only fifty men, a remarkably small percentage, officers say, will be lost to the Kentucky brigade through this new foe to peace strength. The brigade has been weakened considerably by the provision permitting men with dependent families to withdraw.

Governor Stanley, of Kentucky, who reviewed the National Guard at Ft. Thomas, Ky., said that the improvement which has taken place in the men since his visit six weeks ago is almost unbelievable. Addressing the troops, the Governor said: "I await the call to the border or to arms at any time with confidence. I thank God I am the Chief Executive of a State that boasts of such men as face me now. For the future the valor of our army is the sole reliance against the wrath of our preparing foe."

The Insurance Committee of the Louisville Board of Trade is considering offering its services as intermediaries between the State Fire Insurance Board and the Kentucky Actuarial Bureau, in an attempt to put an end to the present deadlock. The board has taken the position that no increase in rates can be made, except where there is an increase in hazard, the bureau maintains that, inasmuch as the loss ratio in Kentucky is already excessive, it is impossible to make decreases unless rates on risks which are too low can be raised.

Such tobacco enjoyment

as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

PRINCE ALBERT

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

The tobacco housed would not have been damaged and the plastering would yet be good had it not been for that leaky roof.

Now let us talk business. Can you think of anything better to roof with than a good red Cedar Shingle?

Our experience and the experience of our friends has taught us that it is the most practical roof in use today, and did you know that the price of shingles did not advance as did iron and felt roofing, and it will pay you to talk with us about this before repairing that old roof or putting on a new one.

Organized and Well-Prepared People Alone
Can Keep International Highwaymen
From Country's Borders

By MAJ. GEN. LEONARD WOOD
Commander Department of the East, United States Army

Modern war is fought on a chemical basis and a mechanical basis, as well as a man basis. It is not arms and men alone. Of course, the men, trained men, are the essential thing. Nothing has ever been produced which can take the place of the one thing that God made, and that is man. It is the man who is well trained and reasonably well armed; but back of that are tremendous influences in the shape of equipment and all sorts of apparatus, and the production of these is based upon sound organization and development of chemical resources to an extent never before thought of. You have seen that, in this great war abroad, war is being fought with gas and fire and with all sorts of chemical compounds brought into the battlefield in some way or other. It is very unpleasant to think of them. They do not seem to be half as attractive as a clean-cut bullet wound, but they are there, and they are the things we must look forward to meeting some time, if we meet the enemy in the field. The purpose of war is to kill. It is not a very pleasant procedure, especially for the fellows who are to be killed. Remember that it is a great deal better to prepare and not have war, than it is to have war and not be prepared. And remember another thing: that it is not the weak nation, whining for sympathy, and unprepared and unready, that determines whether there is to be war or arbitration—it is the strong, well-prepared nation which determines finally whether arbitration or force is to be employed.

Nation Can Be Prepared Without Being Aggressive

A great many people will tell you that preparation means trouble; that you cannot be strong without being vicious; that you cannot be prepared without being aggressive. It seems to me that a statement of that sort, addressed to our people, is little short of an insult to our intelligence and our decency. We can be both prepared and ready and yet tolerant, just and self-restrained. We are not going to wage an aggressive war, but we have the right to be prepared. All our early presidents urged preparation. In every message, almost, of the first presidents, who had seen something of war, in fact, of all our presidents, you find some warning note about preparation. In the early days, shortly after the birth of the nation, they were especially emphatic. They were sound men and big men and patriotic men, and their advice was always to be prepared as the best means of avoiding trouble.

The house that is well guarded and well protected is much less liable to be attacked by the burglar than the house that is unguarded and full of spoils. And so it is in the case of the international highwayman—he counts the cost.

You have wars based on patriotism and great public impulse, where cost sometimes is thrown to the winds, but the wars for power and aggression, wars for the possession of trade routes or the lands necessary for racial expansion and increased trade, etc., are based generally upon the cost. A country going into a war of that class figures out "what are we going to get, how much is it going to cost?" It is the prepared nation that others hesitate to attack.

If the advice of our early presidents was sound when the ocean was a real barrier, when no foreign country had a large well-organized army, when the transportation of an army across the sea was more difficult, when the weapons of war were few in type and simple and easy to manufacture and easy to become familiar with, and most of our forefathers were familiar with the use of the musket and the use of other arms—how much more seriously is that advice to be taken today, when steam has divided distance and time by ten; when every great nation on earth except China and ourselves is well organized for defense at least; when the weapons of war are intricate machines, requiring a great deal of time to manufacture, still more time to become familiar with?

Our wealth is immense and our commerce is aggressive and extending all over the world, while our lands extend from the Caribbean sea almost to China. New conditions have arisen and we must simply heed them. We must not simply have generous impulses and think nothing of preparation. Nothing will help you but preparation. Mere numbers will not serve. No wolf was ever frightened by the size of a flock. It is the organized and well-prepared people who count. You cannot do anything in the crush of modern war with undeveloped resources. A nation with undeveloped resources is helpless, unless organized.

A nation with undeveloped resources is a good deal like a man upon a point of land, surrounded by timber, with iron ore in the ground under his feet and everything at hand to build a fleet, and someone points out a ready, equipped and well-prepared fleet in front of him and says: "There is the fleet of the enemy, where is your fleet?" And he swings his arm and says: "Here I have unlimited resources and I can build the biggest fleet on earth." But the man says: "Here is the fleet you have to fight, which is ready to begin work in half an hour. You cannot be ready in four or five years."

That is not unlike the condition of our country. We have got the material and have money, we have responsibility too, and we have not done the work of construction. We have hardly even commenced it, and it must be continued, and it can only be continued through the force of public opinion, because in a democracy such as ours, a representative government, the people really govern, and the men in congress represent their views and interests. Your views must be presented. They must be sound, well-thought-out views.

When Governments Murder

Convinced as I am that a government is a murderer of its citizens which sends them to the field untrained and untaught, where they are to meet men of the same age and strength mechanized by education and discipline for battle, I cannot withhold my denunciation of its wickedness and folly.

GEN. HARRY LEE.

Right of Compulsory Service

It may be laid down as an axiom, based upon historical proof, that any government which foregoes its rights to compulsory military service, becomes more and more enslaved by depending solely upon voluntary military service induced by gifts of money, land and clothing.—Upton.

Aeroplane as a Life-Saver

Proposed Aerial Coast Patrol Will Be of Great Value in Time of Peace
as Well as in War

By ADMIRAL ROBERT E. PEARY
Chairman National Aerial Coast Patrol Commission

Although it has taken the spectacular exploits of the greatest war in history to focus the minds of the people on the marvels of the aeroplane, the great value of this latest wonder of the world will be as an agency of peace. It will soon prove itself more of a life-saver than a life-waster. The aeroplane's field of usefulness is expanding daily.

It would be a criminal misuse of human genius and the very debauchery of science if the only purpose of the aeroplane was to skulk through God's blue sky in search of prey.

For one day of war there are ten days of peace, and even when one part of the world rounds to the clash of arms the other part is a humming hive of industry.

Therefore the stage of efficiency and perfection which the aeroplane has reached in 22 months of war is only a forerunner of what is to come when strong men again at peace have time and thought and energy to fit the aeroplane into its proper place as an instrument for the advancement of civilization.

There are many ways in which the aeroplane will save lives, and is in a position to do so now. There is a way already at hand, for which there is a need almost daily—namely, the aerial burglar-alarm system now being advocated by the commission of which I have the honor to be chairman.

The national aerial coast patrol commission was organized last January in New York, and now has offices in the United States Coast Survey building in Washington. Its purpose is to guard the long and irregular coast lines of the United States with a continuous chain of hydroaeroplanes. Day and night it will watch over 5,000 miles of coast, to save lives in time of peace and to be the wary eyes of our national defense system when war comes.

This plan was suggested last August in a speech I made before the Rotary club of Portland, Me. Although it was put forward at a conference on preparedness, nevertheless from its very inception my idea has been that, after all, its greatest value to the American people will be the good work it is to do along our shores and out at sea in protecting lives, ships and cargoes, while performing the duties of a military patrol.

Such also has been the thought of all the distinguished public officials and citizens who have rallied to my support in the organization of the commission. This list includes two senators, two representatives, two assistant secretaries, a well-known New York banker, and a brilliant young inventor, the worthy son of a worthy sire. The presidents of the various aero clubs, the adjutants general of the states' militia and the commanders of the various state naval militia are also members. We are all working together, and we propose to establish by popular subscription a complete chain of hydroaeroplane stations, stretching from Eastport, Me., down the Gulf of Mexico, and around all the way to Cape Flattery, state of Washington, at the head of Puget sound.

The Aero Club of America—the center of aeronautical activity in this country—gave the idea its most hearty endorsement a little later, and it was formally launched at the annual dinner of the club, held in New York on January 12 of this year. Then followed the organization of this commission, to which names have been added from time to time, so that the membership is now as follows:

Central committee: Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, Senator Charles F. Johnson of Maine, Representative Julius Kahn of California, Representative Charles Lieb of Indiana, author of the bill now pending before congress to create an independent department of aeronautics with the secretary in the president's cabinet, which is in line with what Germany, France and Great Britain have done; Byron R. Newton, assistant secretary of the treasury; William M. Ingraham, assistant secretary of war; Dr. E. Lester Jones, superintendent of the United States Coast and Geodetic survey; Dr. H. C. Frankendelf, chief forecaster of the federal weather bureau; Hon. Emerson McMillin, the New York banker, and John Hays Hammond, Jr.

A campaign was begun at once in Portland, Me., under the direction of Mayor Ingraham, now the assistant secretary of war, and the $10,000 necessary to provide one station and machine as a unit in the plan was raised in a month. New York city next fell into line with a machine, Washington has just started a campaign under the auspices of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and preliminary sums have been raised just as a starter in other coast cities.

The 50 stations will cost $500,000 to install, it is estimated, and it is certain that a single hydroaeroplane, patrolling its beat 50 miles or more at sea, some day will see a great ship in distress, and reporting to the shore through its light radio apparatus, effect the saving of hundreds of lives, and a ship and cargo more valuable than the initial cost of the entire system.

This illustration could be multiplied by 50, for what one unit can do all the others can do. When the system is increased there will be still another line of life-saving and military patrol pickets 50 miles beyond the first line, or at least 100 miles off shore. Add to all this the value of the proposed system in detecting derelicts and submerged menaces to navigation, and for cheapness and efficiency we will have an organization of the kind unexcelled in any other country.

Unable to Learn

"There are well-meaning people, utterly incapable of learning any lesson taught by history, utterly incapable of understanding aright what has gone on before their very eyes during the last year or two, who, nevertheless, wish to turn this country into an occidental China—the kind of China which every intelligent Chinaman of the present day is seeking to abolish.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

United States Can Be Invaded

But can the United States be invaded? It can—and every man conversant with modern military progress knows it can, even though there is something too startling about the thought to receive the credence of the average citizen when he sits down to his griddle cakes in the morning.—Frederick Palmer.

Industries Must Be Educated for War

Howard E. Coffin Proposes
Plan by Which Supplies
Can Be Assured

By DAVID TUNNECLIFFE

The mobilization of the industries of the country so that in the event of trouble they might immediately begin to deliver munitions of war, might properly be described as the education of the industries. Howard E. Coffin of the naval consulting board has devised a plan by which the education of the industries may be carried on.

But before explaining the system Mr. Coffin first disposed of the theory of government plans for munitions of war. "Whatever our individual views may be upon government-owned plants," he said, "in the last equation, no government in the world can afford to own all the plants for the production of army and navy munitions in sufficient quantities to carry any army through a modern war. In the last analysis it must be the private plants upon which we must depend to furnish the materials needed."

If England, with her great and powerful allies in the field, has 80 per cent, or as some claim even 90 per cent of her industries working to supply the needs of her armies, then the accuracy of Mr. Coffin's statement is beyond question, and the early education of the industrial army is fully as important as the raising of the fighting army.

Educational Orders Favored.

"We must place drawings, instructions, and gauges in the hands of the skilled workmen of the manufacturing plants throughout this country, and do it in time of peace or they will never be able to meet our needs in the numerous cases of war in time of emergency," declared Mr. Coffin. "We must place small educational orders with these various factories, together with the blue prints, jigs and gauges, if we are to enable them to get such a general practical working knowledge of what is required that in time of stress they may be enabled to jump in quickly and pick up the work without fatal delay."

"As an illustration of what it means not to be prepared to handle these things, I want to tell you that many concerns in our country taking orders from foreign governments—orders placed a year and a half ago—have scarcely done anything in the way of quantity delivery. Heavy shipments have been made to European powers, but the great mass of such shipments has been of stuff which is not strictly munitions of war in the popular conception of the term, but materials like barbed wire or other things of such kind as we were pretty well able to supply off the shelf. When it has come to the production of shells and munitions of war and rifles, many of these concerns are way behind what they expected they would be able to do. This applies also to many of our arms manufacturers, whom some of our lovely optimistic people would say could manufacture in a week enough arms to supply an army. I know one concern in Cleveland which took a big shell order. They promised deliveries of something like 1,500 a day at a certain date. The job looked very easy, but it took them four months beyond the promised date to get even 200 shells a day through the plant."

Engineers Ready to Aid.

"There is one body of men in the United States who have the ability through their training and through the fact that they have been instrumental in the development of all American industries, qualified to render the most efficient service to the army and navy. I refer to our engineers. The officers of the army and navy are the equal in personnel of the officers of any similar positions in the world. Many of us think they are the superior. They have been educated at West Point and Annapolis. They have lived with these problems of naval warfare and land warfare, and they have studied fighting and all the rules of strategy and are masters in their line. But, generally speaking, these men have not had the hard knocks in the commercial end and in that manufacture of goods in quantity which will best fit them to go out and institute a general mobilization of the industrial resources of this country."

They cannot be expected to do that, but they are specialists in their own line. We, engineers and manufacturers, do not know anything about the fighting end of the business. We could not tell these gentlemen how they should handle their troops, but we do know the industrial game, and when the time comes, all theory aside as to what might be done or ought to be done, the people in this country who will have to bear the brunt of war will be the manufacturers and engineers, who will have to organize almost to a man in support of the forces doing the actual fighting.

Prepare in Time of Peace.

"In the working out of this plan in a concrete way we have in the five national technical organizations, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Society of Mining Engineers and American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Institute of Electric Engineers, and the American Chemical society, a group of 30,000 men representing every phase of industrial life in this country. It is this group of men already organized, and working in co-operation with the officers of the navy and army, who will be able to do the industrial organization work which must be done before we can be truly prepared. The only way to make our resources available—the only way to organize the industries of the United States for national service—is to do it quietly and efficiently in time of peace. We cannot do it at the last minute when we are trying to turn a back somersault because there has been a declaration of war the night before. We have had a pretty fair lesson in the Spanish-American war, and we will probably have another lesson in the Mexican affair before we are through with it. It may be a good lesson, and wake us all up to what war in 1916 means."

Like Fire Insurance.

"That these manufacturers and engineers will do this work there is not the slightest doubt in the world. They will do it, not because they hope for material advantage to accrue to them or to the concerns which they control—and many of them are the leading business men of the country—but they will do it, if you please, upon the same basis that we all carry fire insurance. I refuse to believe that patriotism is any less of a vital influence in America—but put this upon the cold-blooded basis of insurance if you like. I believe that there are thousands of concerns in this country who have never had one dollar's worth of government business, and who would not consider taking one dollar's worth of government business, for war materials in time of peace. It would conflict with their regular lines of work, and they are rushed to death with business in these regular lines. My own concern, for two or three years, has had subdealers' names on the books, who have scarcely ever seen one of our motor cars which they themselves have owned. Unfortunately, this is not a mere figure of speech, so why should we ask for government business? We are willing, however, to take a standing order for a certain small number of shells or any other material of that character which our equipment is fitted to produce, and deliver that material each year under government inspection. Goods produced under this educational system could be sent to depots, which preferably should be located in the middle West. This would be merely on the basis of organization and education, to fit the factories to swing in on this complicated new work if it should ever be necessary."

Fit Factories for Work.

"By taking a small order, say even for ten shells of one size, we shall have broken in every department of our works as to the handling of that particular munition. Our purchasing department will learn where and how to buy materials. Our factory will learn how to machine, how to best treat, how to test and inspect to government standards. The engineering department will have in its files up-to-date drawings and specifications for quick use. We have enough manufacturing equipment in this country so that we can concentrate and specialize a concern on some one thing and say, 'Gentlemen, in case of war that is the particular thing we are going to call upon you for in such and such quantity' and if congress will give to our navy and war departments power to exercise judgment in placing these small educational orders throughout the country, it will have done as much to fit this country to defend itself as through appropriating money for a tremendous increase in army and navy. Army and navy will be taken care of as a matter of course. These other things cannot be handled except through the closest kind of co-operation between a nationally organized industry and the various departments of the government."

The American Flag

Your flag and my flag, and how it flies today
In your land and my land and half a world away;
Rose red and blue and white, the good forefathers' dream;
Snow white and soul white, the good forefathers' dream;
Sky blue and true blue with stars that gleam aright;
The glorious garden of the day, a shelter through the night.

Your flag and my flag, and oh, how much it holds!
Your land and my land, secure within its folds;
Your heart and my heart beat quicker at the sight,
Sun-kissed and wind-tossed, the red and blue and white;
The one flag—the great flag—the flag for me and you,
Glorifies all else beside, the red and white and blue.

REV. A. J. CLERE RESIGNS

A well filled house heard Rev. A. J. Clere, who has been the pastor for the Baptist church for the past year, preach his farewell sermon in the school auditorium last Sunday night. The resignation of Mr. Clere came as quite a surprise to the people in this community and only those who were close to him in that denomination had any intimation that he was to take such a step. He is undoubtedly just where he will take up his work, although he has a call under consideration now from a prominent church in Ohio.

NOTICE

To County High School Pupils: The pupils who hold common school diplomas in Educational division Number One, are hereby notified that only thirty dollars of their tuition will be paid to the Graded School by the County Board. Owing to the unusual large number of County High School pupils and necessary expense of the other high schools in the county, it was necessary for the County Board to make this order. The County Board made a proposition of a rate of $30.00 a pupil to the graded school board, but it was rejected; now it is necessary for the parents to pay the difference—which difference is $6. for 9th grade and $20. for all higher grades.

Are We Really Musical?

We institute music in our public schools and display our interest in it once a year—at graduation time. We see that our children take "music lessons" and judge the results likewise by their capacity to play us occasionally a very new little piece. Men, in particular—all potential singers, and very much needing to sing—look upon it as a slightly offensive, or scarcely natural and manly thing to do. Music is, in short, too much our diversion and too little our salvation.—Atlantic.

HON. A. B. BROWN.
CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY COMMITTEE.

Our County Democratic Committee, made no mistake in selecting Hon. A. B. Brown to succeed Hon. J. L. Hamilton, resigned. He seems to be the unanimous choice of the party, and deservedly so, because he has been for more than thirty years, one of the most tireless and constant workers for the success of Democracy in the county. He serves the party for his love and interest in the success of the organization and not with the view of running or holding office. The place to which he is elected, places him at the head of the party in the county and is one of great responsibility. It can be understood that he will always act for the good of the party and give all a fair deal, which is always productive of party harmony and leads to party success. The committee at the same time recommended that the proper authorities appoint committee to fill the vacancies in the committee, namely: Sim Wheeler, Walker's School House, Hogan Road in West Bryantsville, Charlie Dean in East Bryantsville, and J. M. Annis, in Buckeye.

STATE FAIR AUCTION.

The free auction sale, at the Kentucky State Fair, designed to improve the breed of live stock in Kentucky, will be held Thursday and Friday of State Fair Week, and every encouragement will be lent toward inducing Kentucky farmers and breeders to stock their places with pure bred cattle, sheep, hogs, and poultry. Horses and mules will not be sold at this year's auction sale, but if it proves the great success that its promoters hope, it will be included next year.

It was decided not to overload the auction sales this year, but to encourage the improved breeding of live stock in the four fields decided upon.

No commission will be charged in the auction sales, and the only expense incurred by those who desire to offer their stock for sale will be the actual feed and nominal fees for stable room. Such sales held in other States have been productive of wide distribution of pure blooded stock and of decided improvement in the breed of live stock in nearby communities.

Anticipating an especially large attendance, provision has been made by Louisville civic organizations to guarantee that no one who attends the fair will have to go without a night's lodging. Boarding houses have been compelled to the number of several thousand and all who attend will be assured of suitable quarters in which to sleep and of abundant eating facilities.

To Every Confederate Veteran In Kentucky:

The Hon. Mat Cohen, Commissioner, and the State Board of Agriculture and the Louisville Board of Trade have united in a cordial invitation to all Confederate Veterans to be present at the State Fair at Louisville on September 12th, 1916, which is set apart as "Governors' and Military Day." They desire your attendance to order that they may show you especial courtesies as an evidence of the esteem in which you are held by three organizations and the citizens of Kentucky generally.

I therefore urge that every Confederate Veteran in the State who can do so accept this invitation and attend; and to further show our appreciation of this invitation it is hereby ordered that every one who attends meet me at the office of Hon. W. J. Gooch, Secretary of the Fair, promptly at 11 o'clock A. M. September 12, 1916, and join in a short parade across the arena accompanied by bands playing National airs. Come, and be sure to wear your uniform, Confederate button, or camp badge, one or all, and let us have a good day together at our great State Fair.

PERSONAL TALES OF BRITISH PUSH

Wounded Tell of Thrilling Moments in Picardy Charges.

BOOK STOPPED TWO BULLETS

Hundreds Killed and Wounded on Both Sides as the English Opened Their Offensive—Artillery Work a Marvel of Exactness—Praise German Bravery.

London is now being thrilled by the stories of the push on the Somme, which the wounded soldiers have brought back. Soresly wounded as many are, and after a journey which all the cure made barely endurable, the men still thrille with the thrill of the charge, and their talk is all of the rush.

"We went over in grand style," said a sergeant recalling the assault on Montauban, "and found the place in an awful mess. Most of the houses had been knocked head over heels, the only ones I saw standing were a couple of cafes. As we came on we saw lots of Germans running out of the back of the village, but there were plenty of them monkeying about the ruins. We divided the company up into groups of six, but as we neared the village we joined up again. My dress pants and myself saw some in a ground floor room, so we dropped a Mills bomb through the window and didn't wait for an answer.

"As we turned the corner we saw a German lying round the end of a wall. He'd got a machine gun and had made a little emplacement with bricks. He turned the blindest thing on me and got me in the foot. It didn't stop me, though, and when I was getting near to him I felt two kicks over the heart. I didn't wait to see what happened, but simply went at him and layonated him. I couldn't goen much farther, so I sat down to see what was the damage.

Book Stopped Bullets.

"My foot was pretty bad, but when I looked at my left hand I found my book. I saw two holes in it. I opened my book, and I found that two bullets had gone through my novel, shattering the armor, through my pocket case and had noses their way into a book I was carrying. Luckily enough, earlier in the morning my officer gave me the book and said I could read it when I got into the German trenches, so I put it in my pocket, little thinking that I should be able to read a bit of it on hospital duty coming back. The two bullets after piercing the armor and case had not and fused into one lump of metal.

"I saw three Germans come up to two of our fellows and throw down their rifles. So our boys chucked down theirs, too, and went out for them with their fists, and they didn't half give them a dishing.

"As we were going into Montauban we saw a German machine gunner up a tree. He'd got the nearest little platform you ever saw built so that it was almost invisible. We shot him. "The spirit of our boys was splendid. They simply loved the fun. One of them got blown up by a shell. He seemed pretty dazed, but he poked himself up and came along. All he said was, 'Oh, there must be a war on if all I suppose.'"

"We had carried the first two lines and on getting into the third we saw the Germans coming up from the two exits of a deep dugout and piling off down the trench. Our platoon commander got into the trench and poked them off as they came out. He had the mouth of the dugout on either side of him, say fifteen yards away. He was as cool as a cucumber. He simply turned from right to left and fired just as if he was in a shooting gallery. It was the best bit of fancy shooting I've seen."

Artillery Called Magnificent.

A sergeant major of the Middlesex speaking of the work of English artillery, said: "They were simply magnificent, and as we advanced they lifted trench by trench. The battalion went over and on in this style. It was just like a parade, and the men felt confident, as they knew that large reserves were behind them. We soon got into the German front trench. I saw very few living, but in the second and third lines we found a few. At the bottom of the deep trenches were plenty of dead and in the dug-outs too."

A corporal in the Northumberland Fusiliers gave a picture of the precision with which the assault was carried on.

"Just on time," he said, "the first line went away, not hurrying a bit, just taking it easy. Then came the second line, off course, there were gaps, but these were soon filled. Then went the third line, and I followed up with the supports. Everything was going A. I."

"The artillery was lifting from trench to trench, and we were following on step by step. It was just like a field day. The carriers with bombs and ammunition kept on coming along as cheerful as anything, and then later in the day I got moved back into our own front lines and on to the dressing station."

One man who had been at Montauban said that in the German trenches they found plenty of men, but as far as they could judge bombs were the chief weapons, not rifles. Several men spoke of the comparatively small number of files in the trenches.

Mad His Hands In.

Bill—"Well, do you think the doctor has helped you?" Jim, displaying an empty pocketbook: "Looks more as if he'd helped himself."

Smallest British Possession.

Gibraltar, which consists of less than two square miles, is the smallest British possession. Canada, covering 3,746,000 square miles, is the largest.

SOUTHERN APPALACHIAN GOOD ROADS CONVENTION.

Lexington, Kentucky, September 5th To 8th, Inclusive.

There are many reasons why this Eighth Annual Convention of the Southern Appalachian Good Roads Association should be the most successful and useful Convention ever held by this Association.

Since the last Convention, Tennessee has organized a State Highway Department and the State Highway Commission of North Carolina has been organized and is accomplishing splendid results. Also, within the last six months, Congress has passed an act appropriating seventy-five million dollars for Federal Aid to States in road construction, with an additional ten million to be used on roads in Government Forest Reserves. This provision of the Federal Government, together with the recent floods which have visited large areas in the Southern Appalachian region, have created problems for this general section which can be most successfully met by the getting together of all those who are interested in the promotion of good roads throughout this general region.

Therefore, the subjects which will be discussed in detail at this Convention will be Federal Aid, with particular reference to the provisions of the act, and the question of Road Maintenance. This latter subject is of especial interest in view of the fact that one of the provisions of the Federal Aid bill is that MAINTENANCE for roads constructed with this Federal cooperation MUST BE PROVIDED by the states receiving such aid. Among those who will discuss the Federal Aid Roads bill are Mr. L. W. Page, Director of the U. S. Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering; Representative of the U. S. Forest Service, Mr. George P. Coleman, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

Tuesday, September 5th, will be known as GOVERNORS' DAY, and it is expected that the Governors of each of these States will attend and make short addresses. Among the Congressmen who are expected to attend are Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina; Hon. Correll Hall, Hon. D. H. Kitchel, of Kentucky; Hon. Charles P. Coody of Maryland; Senator John K. Shields of Tennessee; Hon. John W. Langley of Kentucky. Their attendance, of course, is dependent upon the adjournment of Congress.

It is expected that this Convention will be the most important, not only in point of attendance, but because of the vital import of the subjects to be discussed to this general region, that the Association has ever held, and all citizens who are interested in the building of their States and of this Southern Appalachian region are cordially invited to attend.

PASTE THIS ON YOUR ICE BOX.

Scales are not necessary to determine the weight of a solid block of ice. All that is needed is a yardstick. Get the length, breadth and thickness in inches. Multiply the length by the breadth and by the thickness, and divide the total, which is the number of cubic inches in the block of ice, by 288. The answer is the weight in pounds of ice. For example: A cake of ice 10 x 10 x 10 inches contains 1,000 cubic inches. Using 288 as a divisor, the correct weight of the ice is 3.4722 pounds.

RICHMOND MAN HAD HEADACHES MOST OF THE TIME: NOW SOUND AS A DOLLAR IS MR. G. J. MARKS.

"I suffered from pains in the back and dull headaches a great deal of the time. I had lost all ambition to work before I took Tanlac," said Goldie J. Marks, plumber, who lives in Richmond, Ky.

"I got a bottle of Tanlac and felt relieved as soon as I began taking it. I feel fine now and have no more pains or headaches."

Ailments such as described by Mr. Marks hugely come from poor digestion. The stomach being out of order is the reason the blood is not furnished with nourishment, therefore, the muscles and tissues become weak and serious breakdowns result.

The action of the body may be described by the running of a mill. The grain crackers correspond to the stomach, they grind the raw products. The conveyers which carry the cracked grain to the hots correspond to the blood and the finished product to the muscle and tissue.

If the grain crackers are dull the conveyers take the half cracked grain to the hots in poor condition and thus the flour is dark, heavy and of low quality.

The miller has only to sharpen the stone which cracks the grain to make the whole mill run smooth and the flour good.

Don't allow your digestion to become dull—sharpen your digestion with Tanlac.

Tanlac is being introduced in Lancaster at E. E. McRoberts.

Tanlac may be obtained in the nearby cities. Paint Lick, J. N. Metcalf; Bryantsville, Becker and Ballard; Little Hickman, Collier and Bremer; Berea, S. E. Welch; Stanford, Penny's Drug Store; Junction City, Reynolds and Evans; Richmond, H. L. Perry & Son; Frankfort, Gaye Bros.; Burgin, G. T. Schoolfield; Danville, John S. Wells; R. E. McRoberts, Lancaster, and W. C. West, Silver Creek.

The handsome apartments were made more attractive by potted plants and cut flowers, tastefully arranged. The guests were met at the door by Master Barton Mabry, and little Miss Stella Goff Gregory, each attired in white, holding dainty baskets. Miss Charley Elmore presided at the punch bowl, and Mesdames J. E. Stormes, George D. Robinson, Ed Price and W. A. Price assisted in receiving. Mrs. Price, the host, was becomingly gowned in pink crepe meteor and Mrs. Mabry was lovely as usual in white crepe de chine. A delicious course of refreshments was served. After a most enjoyable afternoon the guests departed reluctant to say farewell to Mrs. Mabry, who, by her charming personality has made a host of friends in Lancaster.

THOMPSON-WOOD

The marriage of Mrs. Mamie Farra Thompson, of Lexington and Mr. Henry Cleveland Wood, of Harrodsburg, will be celebrated at the home of Mrs. Thompson's brother, Mr. John M. Farra and Mrs. Farra at six o'clock this evening.

Rev. R. N. Simpson of Harrodsburg, will be the officiating minister and only the most intimate relatives and friends will be present. After the ceremony and congratulations, the bride couple will go to Harrodsburg for the wedding supper, to be given in their honor, by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thompson. They will then begin housekeeping in the pretty home which is in readiness for their coming. In speaking of the announcement the Lexington Leader has the following to say of the charming bride and the talented groom.

"This is one of the most interesting announcements of the year, as the marriage will be the union of people of prominence and distinction."

Mrs. Thompson is one of Lexington's most charming and beautiful women. She has been a member of the faculty of Rutledge school for a number of years and served for several terms as the president of the Teachers' Club and Parent-Teachers' Association. She was formerly Miss Mamie Neal Farra, the daughter of the late Mr. Charles Farra, and was graduated at the old Danville College at Harrodsburg, where her mother before her was educated, also being frequently a visitor there in later years.

Mr. Wood is one of the leading business men of Harrodsburg as well as a man of letters, a writer of note, whose stories and poems appear in Harper's Weekly, the Youth's Companion, Audubon Magazine and others. He has won several prizes in literary contests, notably the prize in gold over eight hundred competitors for the best poem on the "Sinker Road," which was the main avenue of approach to the World's Fair in St. Louis. His talent is inherited from his mother, who was also a successful writer.

A critic says of him:

"A poet Mr. Wood possesses, talent of a superior order; his verses have a loftiness of inspiration, grace of imagery, harmony of cadence, and technique which place him high among his contemporaries."

Daily Thought.

God hath made all men to be happy and of good estate—Ephraim.

Not Always Idleness.

Rest is good stuff for hard workers, but rest is not always idleness. The best recreation is often a change of occupation.

Health Hints.

Don't eat too much, don't drink too much, don't work too hard, keep on the shady side of the street and keep your health.

College Pride.

When a student is told that some other college has a better stadium, he feels little satisfaction in the rejoinder that his has a better science building. —Lafayette Journal.

In 1920.

"One of my boys had an egg with the date 1920." "You want to encourage that breed. Those eggs are come out of cold storage and sell as extra fresh."

Value Doubled.

The yearly value of agricultural productions of the United States has doubled in the last 15 years; in the same period the population of the country has increased one-third.

Preparedness Extraordinary.

"Are you going to Mrs. Tyndal's dinner?" "No, I have a subsequent engagement." "A subsequent engagement?" "Yes, one that I have as soon as I heard that Mrs. Tyndal's dinner was going to give a dinner." —Puck.

Like All the Rest.

"I caught the street-car conductor who owes me money on the car platform last night." "Did you get your money?" "No; he did the same thing my other creditors do." "What's that?" "Put me out." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

Good Reason.

A woman from the city was spending the summer in a small town, and one day, while doing her marketing, she asked the butcher how he happened to choose his business. He hesitated a moment, and then: "Well, I don't know," he answered, "but I always was fond of animals."

Dream Life.

I walked about in the forest, and the about came back. Then I searched long to find who answered me—but the sound had no source. I followed the willow-wisp through swamps at evening. It led me blither and you, but I came nowhere. It was only the ghost of a light. I saw an apple-bunching in the depths of a pool, I stopped to pick it, and loyed my hands in the water. The apple had no form. This is dream life.—The Atlantic.

Milk as a Stimulant.

Scientists of the Pasteur Institute have discovered that cow's milk is one of the most powerful stimulants known. It keeps up the human system without interfering with common sense and clear judgment. Milk has been the only "brandy" used for months by the French soldiers in the trenches and it is said that a liberal use of it before going into battle has had such wonderful effect that the French government is urging its sale in preference to other soft drinks when the men are off on duty.

ELIJAH PENNERAKER, Secy, Louisville, Ky.

News has been received here from Kansas City, Mo., of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth McCurdy to Mr. Sannell F. Craig, of the same city. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCurdy, of Kansas City, and a niece of Mr. W. W. Itays of this city, here being Miss Alma Itays, formerly of this city.

One hobo was killed, one badly injured and three others are said to be buried beneath the wreckage, and 22 freight cars and their contents are piled up in an indiscriminate mass, as the result of a very bad freight train wreck which occurred in the Cincinnati Southern railroad just south of McKinney, and at a turn north of South Fork.

Julian, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wright, who was taken to Danville last week and operated on for appendicitis by Dr. Jackson. When the incision was made the little fellow was found to be in a very serious condition and for some time the distressed parents, were given very little hope. Late news from the bedside is that Julian is thought to be some better and that there are hopes for his recovery.

Miss Lissa Holtzclaw, who has recently finished at the College of Music in Cincinnati, will leave Saturday to accept the position as music teacher in Caldwell High school at Richmond. Mr M. D. Elmore has been confined to his home for a week or more suffering from blood poison. Mr Elmore, who is probably the oldest merchant in this city, had the misfortune while working in his store, of striking his foot against a bucket, resulting in a slight wound, he thought at first. Several days later blood poison developed. Mr Elmore is 75 years of age and it will probably take him some time to recover.

At a largely attended meeting of the subscribers to the defunct Rural Credit association, of Lexington held here Monday, it was decided to fight in the courts any effort to collect any balance of unpaid stock subscription from local stockholders. A committee composed of Messrs. Thomas C. Rankin, A. P. Stone and S. M. Owens was appointed to have charge of the matter. This committee will keep in touch with what is being done and look out for the interests of other stockholders. So far as known there are about 400 farmers in Lincoln and adjoining neighborhoods who subscribed for stock in the Rural Credits Association, and their investments represent something like $50,000. Very few, if any, have paid up further stock in full, most of them having paid 25 or 50 per cent. In all about $5,000 is said to have been secured by loyal borrowers from the Association.

The Knights of Pythias fair was a big success this year. Great crowds were present each day and a good display of stock was exhibited every day.

PUBLIC SALE OF LAND.

As agent of the heirs-at-law of Abner Ray, deceased, I will on

at 10 o'clock a. m., sell on the premises, the farm known as the Abner Ray farm situated six and one-half miles from Lancaster on the Poor Ridge pike in Garrard County, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, same containing 56 acres.

It will be offered first in two tracts, one tract containing about 15 acres and the other tract about 41 acres, and then offered as a whole, and the bid realizing the largest sum will be accepted. This farm is located in a good neighborhood, church and school house within a mile, is well improved, with comfortable five room dwelling and good out buildings, under good fence, well watered, and in a high state of cultivation. The land is adapted to the growth of hemp and tobacco.

This place lies near a good store, blacksmith and errand shop and grist mill. Mr. John Ray who lives near will gladly show the place to anyone interested.

Let it be understood that this farm will sell rain or shine and there will be no by-bidders.

TERMS—One half cash and the remainder in twelve months.

At the same time there will also be sold on the place a portion of the crop of corn growing on the farm and also some oats.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.
State Campaign Chairman J. Campbell Untrill is greatly encouraged over the reports brought and sent to him by prominent Democrats all over the state. The headquarters at Louisville is constantly crowded by enthusiastic visiting Democrats, who say that the outcome is most promising for a sweeping victory of Wilson and Marshall. Among the callers on the chairman a few days ago was former State Treasurer Thos. S. Egan who was defeated last year for nomination of State Auditor. He showed that there were no correspondents on him by tendering his services to the chairman to aid him in any way in running up a record-breaking vote. Mr. Egan says that notwithstanding the Republicans are nominating a third district Congressman, Robert V. Thomas will be returned by a good majority.

"POLITICAL MELANCHOLIA."
The New York Herald, which is trying to support Hughes and Fairbanks, candidly admits that the Republicans make no bones of the dissatisfaction and uneasiness over the result of Mr. Hughes' speaking tour of the country, and says that something has got to be done or the "political melancholia" which has resulted will spread like the measles or whooping cough. The fact is, Mr. Hughes is proving a great disappointment to everybody. He offers nothing constructive, but contents himself by abusing Wilson and everything Democratic. The Republicans thought they were making a great hit by nominating a member of the Supreme Court for President, whose month has been closed for six years on political matters, but they are realizing their mistake when it is too late. Patience and shuffle the cards. Everything is working together for good to those who love the Lord and Democracy.

WILL NOT MAKING SPEAKING TOUR.

President Wilson has very sensibly decided not to make a political speaking tour because it is incompatible with his high office, and his time is so fully occupied, but Kentuckians will have a chance to see and hear the present and prospective President when he comes to Kentucky September 4 to accept for the Government the Lincoln home and farm, and they will embrace it from the Big Sandy to Mills Point. Everybody who can will be there.

ADMIRAL DEWEY STAMPS A FALSEHOOD.

Admiral Dewey, the hero of Manila Bay, who has been in the naval service since 1854, and since 1903 the head of the General Board passing on naval defects, naval needs and naval plans, and who is exempt from age retirement, has issued an address to the American people, in response to the criticisms of Congressman Gardner, of Massachusetts, and others on the navy and Secretary Daniels, which seems to knock the props from under those who, for party purposes, would discredit this country in every way in the eyes of its own people and of foreign nations. He says that those who make the charge that Secretary Daniels has demoralized the navy are guilty of falsehood and misrepresentation, as shameful as it is discreditable. In all his experience, Admiral Dewey says, he has never seen the material and the personnel of the navy so efficient. Our ships are as good as any, our officers are as good as any and our enlisted men are the finest in the world. Such a statement from such a source, with no administration having power to hurt him, should and doubtless will shut the mouths of carping critics and give additional reason for the support of President Wilson, who has made such accomplishment possible. So far every attack made on some branch of the Democratic administration has led only to further emphasizing the splendid achievements of the party in power and shown cause for its continuance.

INDEPENDENTS FOR WILSON.

Irvine Fisher, professor of political economy in Yale University, who says he is an independent in politics, has, after a study of the men and the conditions, announced that it is the best interest of the country that President Wilson be elected and that he expects independent voters in general, like him, to vote for the man who has done so much for the country. His reasons are that Wilson has kept the country out of war with honor, forced a recognition of neutral rights upon the high seas and turned a deaf ear to the interests, foreign and local, who would drench Mexico with the blood of our soldiers to make their investments profitable. A change of administration may plunge us into war, while the four months that would intervene between election and inauguration would paralyze foreign policy entirely.

President Wilson has succeeded in accomplishing more real good for the country than any administration in a generation, and would be in better position to accomplish more than the administration of a man who offers nothing constructive, but contents himself with criticism and abuse of his betters. Prate as he does of other things, the real aim of the old guard is protection which it would confound by vague campaign utterances on "Americanism" to capture votes.

The professor has diagnosed the case most correctly, as all will find who give the subject consideration. Independents and Progressives owe it to the President to do all in their power to retain a man in office who is so thoroughly consecrated to duty and humanity and accord him the plaudits of "well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Drink Water Adeptly.
When the thermometer is slowly climbing upward, the only way we can keep our own temperature from doing likewise is to drink copiously of pure water. There is nothing so refreshing or cooling as pure water chilled to a palatable temperature. Children especially should be encouraged to drink freely of water. Even babies should have their regular bottles of pure water.

IT MEANS SOMETHING.
When a great and influential newspaper like the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, after a close scrutiny of Mr. Hughes, his platform and his party's course, declares for President Wilson for reelection, it means much for Democracy. It reflects as much as may be the popular vote, the fact remains that Mr. Wilson without bringing the United States into war, forced a recognition of neutral rights, while his Mexican policy, founded on the principle that we shall not have a permanently peaceful neighbor until the most patent wrongs under which the masses of the Mexicans have suffered are righted through their own efforts, means a minimum of evil in this country, and time will prove its correctness.

Under Mr. Wilson's leadership, the paper continues, the Democratic party is today a better instrument of progressive government than in a generation, if not in its entire history, and what is more to the point, a better instrument than the Republican party promises at this moment to become under Mr. Hughes. It has achieved a long series of soundly constructive legislative measures of historic importance—notice among them the income tax, the banking and currency act, the rural credits act, the child labor bill, the Federal unemployment service, the humanitarian features of the seamen's act and the provision for vocational training for civil life while in the army.

Confronted by almost as many difficulties as Mr. Lincoln faced, Mr. Wilson has met every issue with a courage and a solution that is little short of superhuman. Honest papers like the Springfield sheet recognize this and are patriotic enough to want to reward a servant who has been so just and so faithful, and thousands of patriotic voters, no matter what their party inclinations, will do likewise. Before the nominations the New York World urged that all parties rally to the support of President Wilson and thus show appreciation of his great work for humanity. The suggestion was not accepted by the Republican leaders, but the Republican voters seem to be taking to it with a force that means the triumph of the faithful. Nothing in the future seems so sure as the election of Wilson and Marshall. And the Lord will add his blessing.

An order has been issued to the French Army to remove its whiskers. If such an order could be enforced on 'candidate Hughes there would be nothing left of him but feathers, fust and fustian.

CAMPAIGN OPENING.

Great preparations are being made by the people of Clark County for the State Campaign opening at Winchester, September 9th, and the occasion is going to be a memorable one. The citizens, without regard to politics, are united in the effort to eclipse any former opening and General Manager John E. Garner, ably assisted by County Judge John M. Stevenson, are working to that end with tireless activity.

The principal speakers will be Vice President Thos. M. Marshall, Congressman Thos. Hefflin, of Alabama, and Scott Ferris, of Oklahoma, each a spell binder, and barbecued meats and burgoo will be prepared for 20,000 people. It is going to be a season of oratory, lovefeasts and feasts of good things. Everybody is invited and it is hoped that all who can will accept the invitation. The Winchester people want you and you are wanted to help make the crowd the largest that ever attended a campaign opening.

TO WORK THE PROGRESSIVES.
Alarmed over the continued refusal of the majority of the Progressives to be turned over to the Republicans by Roosevelt and Perkins, the campaign managers are securing all the former influential Republicans they can to visit the states that give a large vote for Roosevelt to act as mediators in bringing the factions to gether, besides sending prominent speakers out in every district that showed Roosevelt majorities. It's a nice little scheme, but it won't work. Many of his followers, who honestly stood for the principles that the Colonel preached and recanted, cannot be caught with any such chaff. They will support Wilson, as a large number of Progressives are daily announcing.

REPUBLICANS DISCOURAGED.
With no vital issue and governed solely by the desire to again enjoy the flesh pots of office, the Republicans, headed by their most disappointing nominee, fill their speeches with criticism of the Wilson administration without suggesting what they may imagine was the better course. The party is torn and disorganized, while the Democrats were never more united and enthusiastic. They go before the country with confidence, feeling proud of the party's achievements and confident of triumph, while Mr. Hughes runs down hill and further from the goal every day.

Enjoy Yourself.

There is no use in refraining from telling those who meditate. You will have to listen to them all through life, so you might as well narrate your share, if you feel so inclined.

Wind-Proof Tents.
The folding tents used in an Antarctic expedition can be set up in the severest wind storm. These tents easily shelter six men, and weigh but 37 pounds.

Preposterous.
"I couldn't help but laugh." "What's the matter?" "That summer girl who just now climbed aboard a Pullman after telling fourteen sorrowing suitors good-by, said she was going to Atlantic City for a rest."

Rather Apt Comparison.
"A meteoric career is not wholly to be desired," admitted Professor Fats. "The meteor suddenly flames forth from obscurity, dashes crazily athwart the surprised sky in a squirt of momentary brilliancy, pops loudly and subsides into oblivion, very much as does the average favorite son."

CROPS THAT ROB THE FARM.

Farmer Must Manage to Restore Fertility That Has Been Exhausted.
[Prepared by United States Department of Agriculture.]

It is estimated that every ton of crop per day taken from the farm the minute of which is not returned to the soil robs it of $7.94 worth of fertility. If bought in the form of commercial fertilizer, a ton of cotton seed, $15.00; an acre of corn producing fifty bushels, both stalk and grain, $18.50; the grain alone, $9.50; an acre of oats, producing thirty-five bushels, remove from the entire crop $11.33 and $1.72 for the grain alone.

In many cases exhaustion of the soil by cropping has gone on until the farm responds reluctantly to the many drafts made upon it. The farmer must manage to restore this fertility. No better method of doing this can be found than to keep enough stock on the farm to utilize the pasturage of idle lands and much of the surplus grain and forage produced. The stock should be kept under sheds and inclosures when possible and an abundance of bedding furnished to absorb the liquids as well as to add to the bulk of the manure heap.

The roots and stubble of crops always restore something to the soil. With such crops as clover, cowpeas or beans approximately 20 per cent of the natural value of the crop is kept in the soil. When such crops are harvested for hay and fed to good farm stock and the manure is returned to the land so ten per cent of the entire fertilizing value is kept on the farm. At the same time the full feeding value is obtained.

Farm manure should be handled with great care. It should never be left in the open yard or placed in the field for any length of time, as much of its plant food will be leached away. Neither should it be stored loose under sheds but it should be packed down and kept wet enough to prevent heating, which would drive off nitrogen. This tremendous loss from improper handling explains why farmers find it necessary to use such large quantities of manure to derive maximum benefit from it. It will be observed that even when manure is stored loose shed there is loss. By covering the manure heap with substances like dairy manure, sawdust or wheat straw much loss may be prevented and the stack of manure greatly increased. Loom will absorb about fifteen pounds of nitrogen per ton of good pounds, sawdust about eight pounds and wheat straw nearly four pounds.

Keep Farm Tools Sharp.
By keeping the farm tools sharp you save horse feed and horse strength. It does better work, more of it in one day and pays a better profit. It saves time, temper and human vitality. A good entry alone will pay for itself in one season. Get you one and keep the tools sharp.

Milk Is Good Food For Chickens.
Feed all of the spare milk, such as buttermilk, separator milk and skid milk to the chickens. They relish it, and it is good for them. It matters not if it is sour, provided it is clean.

Nevel Stalk Cutter.
In harvesting certain crops like corn, sugar cane and such sticky growths the most trying and exhausting part of the labor is leaning over to cut down the stalk at the ground. A woman of Nevada, Tex., has remedied this in a device to be secured to the farmer's sled by which the cutting is done with a quick movement of the foot and no leaning over is required. The knife is a broad, flat blade secured to the sled at the toe and over the instep and braced for the repeated blows it will receive by sliding against the feed.

RULES FOR TREE PLANTING

Select the kind of a tree that will grow best in your location. Choose a variety from those already thriving in your vicinity.

A ten to twelve foot tree is considered the best size for ordinary planting. It should be free from snags and pests. The trunk should be straight, and it should have a long leader.

When digging trees in the woods be careful not to injure the roots, and secure as many of the fibrous ones as possible. Nursery grown trees are better because they have been transplanted several times and have better root systems.

Do not allow the roots to become dry. Keep them moist and covered until you are ready to put them in the ground.

Ragged ends of broken roots should be cut off with a sharp knife.

Muzzled.
Speaking of garters—have you heard of the Harvard students who applied a pair with silver clasps in a Harvard square shopwindow, and thinking to raise a smile, at least, from the charmer at the counter, asked the price of a dog collar, pointing at the same time to the silver-clasped garter? She turned, looked sweetly at the young men, and said: "We do not separate them for puppies, sir."—Boston Herald.
